

Book Awards

Brown Book Award – Awarded to a junior who best combines the outstanding attitudes with excellence in English.

Colgate University Book Award – Awarded to a junior who has achieved high academic distinction, ranking in the top 10% of the class while undertaking a rigorous college preparatory curriculum. This is combined with outstanding leadership in the school or community and a particular awareness and sensitivity to global issues.

Dartmouth Book Club Award – Awarded to a junior who ranks in top 10-15% of the class; be of high moral character. He or she must also excel in at least one non-academic area (sports, music, drama, community service, and the like).

Harvard University Book Award – Awarded to a junior who best combines outstanding scholarship with achievement in other fields.

Holy Cross Book Prize – Awarded in recognition of outstanding scholarship, concern for others, and commitment to school and community.

Mount Holyoke Book Award – Awarded to an outstanding junior girl who has produced an excellent academic record through enrollment in AP or honors classes, and who has exhibited qualities of leadership and service in the school community.

University of Pennsylvania Book Award – Awarded to a junior with exemplary citizenship and community service. The recipient should be well rounded and have evidenced leadership in academics and athletics. The student need not be a top academic student or the best athlete, but should be an athlete of some ability and should be a good classroom student.

Princeton Book Award – Awarded to a junior who displays a concern for the opinion of others while demonstrating exceptional leadership, talent, and competence in both academic and non-academic pursuits.

Smith Book Award – Awarded to an outstanding junior girl who exemplifies the academic achievement, leadership qualities, and concern for others that characterizes the thousands of women who have graduated from Smith.

Wellesley College Book Award – Awarded to a junior girl who has made an outstanding contribution to her school in terms of scholarship, achievement, leadership, and citizenship.

Williams College Book Award – Awarded to a junior in the 10% of his or her class.

Yale Book Award – Awarded to a junior who manifests commitment to social improvement, integrity and ethical standards. In combination with intellectual curiosity and academic ability, such social awareness must be nurtured to keep man's responsibility to his fellows apace with his technological progress.